

Dr. Harri Mikkola is the Programme Director of the Finnish Foreign Policy, Northern European Security and NATO research programme at the Finnish Institute of International Affairs (FIIA). His fields of expertise include the Arctic region, geostrategy in the Northern Europe, societal resilience, security of supply, hybrid influencing, Finnish defence and security policy, as well as defence market issues. Prior to joining FIIA in 2011, Mikkola worked at the Finnish Defence Command, at the University of Tampere, Finland, and as a Visiting Researcher at the University of Minnesota, USA. He received his PhD in Political Science from the University of Tampere, Finland in 2013.