

Ivar Ekman is an analyst at the Swedish Defence Research Agency's unit for Asymmetric Threats, where he focuses on strategic communication and intelligence methodology. He holds a Master's degree in International Affairs from Columbia University and has a 20-year of experience as a journalist. For 10 years he worked as a host and producer at Swedish National Radio's leading foreign affairs show "Konflikt." Prior to that, he worked for the New York Times and as a correspondent and feature writer in Scandinavia and Italy. He has also been published in Foreign Affairs, Financial Times and World Politics Review. His current research focuses on Ukraine's efforts on the information front of the ongoing war (see recent report, "Ukraine's Information Front": <https://foi.se/en/foi/reports/report-summary.html?reportNo=FOI-R--5451--SE>), as well as crowd forecasting methods.