

KATHERINE HARPER

Katherine Harper is currently Counsellor (National Security) Home Affairs based at the Australian Embassy in Paris. In this position, Katherine is responsible for engagement with France and other European partners on the full remit of the Department of Home Affairs' national security remit – national resilience, counter foreign interference, cyber and critical infrastructure security, counter-terrorism, and immigration. Prior to this, Katherine worked for a number of years in counter-terrorism and in various international relations roles across the Australian Public Service.