

Paul-Marie GIRY LATERRIERE, born 1986, is an officer of the French Navy. His current assignment is to advise his admiral when it comes to law enforcement at sea for both french polynesia waters and the pacific ocean. He works in Papeete (Tahiti Island). He previously had a similar duty in French Guyana. He is also in charge of the legal aspects regarding naval operations in this area whthin the joint staff of the local french armed forces. As a junior officier, he used to be part of the crew of frigate Prairial, also based in Papeete, and made several calls whithin the pacific island countries and led numerous interactions with the US Coast Guards. His main concerns are IUU fishing, environmental issues, drug interdiction and maritme security and safety.