Richard Morris entered the Royal Navy as a Midshipman in January 1984 at Britannia Royal Naval College Dartmouth. An exciting and rewarding career of 36 years' service as a warfare officer saw Richard at sea in a variety of Royal Navy warships in home waters and in many areas across the globe where the UK has an interest to promote or a national or international security responsibility to enforce. Examples of his global maritime operations experience include Northern Ireland, the South Atlantic, the Far East, Western Indian Ocean region and the Persian Gulf on 3 separate deployments including the invasion of Iraq in 2003. At sea Richard commanded HMS TRUMPETER and HMS SOUTHAMPTON. From January 2014, Richard served in the UAE based at the British Embassy Dubai as the Royal Navy Liaison Officer Gulf and Commanding Officer Naval Party 1023 which included responsibility for the forward deployed UKMTO Dubai team. On retirement from the Navy in 2019, Richard joined NAVY DIGITAL as a civilian MOD contractor with the responsibility of managing the Royal Navy's Maritime Domain Awareness Programme. He is also the MDA Adviser to the Chair of the SHADE GOG/MCF Information Sharing and Incident Reporting Working Group.
